Some People We Like—How and Why

That valuable publication, the "World Almanac," says "there are now more than two billion human beings on earth." So far as the Times is aware they are all likeable, but since this scribble is not personally acquainted with all of them, this column will deal only with the half dozen or so each week who come under our observation—and whom we have special reason to like. For instance— Meets With His Classmates After 29 Years— (1) It was twenty-nine years ago he finished his profession and began the building of the community of which he has been an important part. During all those years he has gone far toward the alleviation of suffering humanity, and no call has been made upon him which was too late at night or too early in the day to get a prompt response. Still he hasn't grown old in all those years—you'd scarcely believe he had been in public life almost a third of a century. Last week he went back among his classmates for a reunion—met again some of those whom he had not seen since the day of his and their graduation. He told us since coming back from that reunion about the crowd which thrilled him when he met those friends of his boyhood days and looked again into their faces. They, too, he said, were little changed. Twenty-two youngsters graduated in his class, and of those youngsters he was present when they came together last week in Augusta; a census showed that eighteen of the twenty-two are still alive and engaged in their profession. That is a long time for a group of business men to stay on. We like men who can do that, and still be cheerful and generous. You like this man, too, of that we are sure.

Absence of Hair No Evidence of Old Age— (2) You can't judge a man's age by merely looking at his head. He might have gray hair—or not hair at all—and still be not so very old, because old age is a comparative term, and nobody is old so long as one remains young in spirit and active in body. Now, there is a newspaper man in another town who has been the business newspaper for so long you'd imagine him to be an old man. If you were to look at his head, you'd see the back of his head, you'd see plenty of hair, and it not so very bald, either; you'd see a pair of crutches standing by his side, and then you'd be more than ever convinced that he is an old man. If you sat down in the chair and talked with him, and saw him smile, and heard him laugh—and then heard him philosophize about the future of his paper career—that he began the printing of his newspaper in the present city of publication in the year 1893—which is exactly forty-five years ago—and that he had grown up with his city from a crossroads community to a place of commanding importance in the business world—a city of over eight thousand people, and his paper now a daily—and you'd forget his gray hair and forget his crutches, and you'd know he is a young man (despite all the outward evidence which had misled you). We like a man who can run a newspaper so long, and use his crutches because of a lame knee, and yet be cheerful and youthful. Don't you like a man of that type?

Lads' 'Doin' Nothin' But Just Sitting Down' (3) The most-to-be-pitied person in the world is a child without a brother or sister to lead him or her through life. Maybe older brothers and sisters give the smaller ones some right hand knocks, but they also teach them how to be independent. We saw three youngsters on the streets one evening when we envied. It was past 9 o'clock that we passed a corner and saw the trio. The older one, not more than 10, was sitting on the curb; the other two, possibly 8 and 6, were boys doing on the streets so late? We asked the older of the boys. He replied, "Nothin' but just sitting down." He wasn't impertinent—he merely spoke the simple truth. We didn't find out what he was waiting for, but we knew he was only spending a little time with the smaller brothers while the three of them are developing into manhood—which is just around the corner. And we ruminated as we passed them by. Almost forty-five years ago we needed a man to drive a cow from the country; there was a young man who took the job—it was the grandfather of these three little boys. Twenty years ago we started on a trip into the boggy swamp, the tomahawk; it was during the flood season, and the roads were overflowed; at a point near Dover our car went into water which drowned it out in the middle of a stream; a group of rollicking able-bodied youngsters came along and cheerfully gave us a push out of the stream and started us going. In the group was the father of these three little youngsters. We looked back over those years while we have past, we looked ahead and visualized the three little fellows on the corner the other evening—little fellows who smiled when they looked into our faces—as an important part of the future. We like little boys who have brothers to lead them along and help them develop into worthwhile citizens. Don't you?

LANDS SAFELY IN TOP WALNUT TREE

First Accident for Dobbs in Eleven Years of Flying According to His Statement. Shattering a flying record of eleven years which he declares had heretofore been unmarred by accident of any kind, Clarence Dobbs climbed down from a walnut tree and left his broken Cub plane hanging in the limbs just outside the landing field Tuesday morning about 10 o'clock. Dobbs has been flying for the Statesboro Aircraft Corporation for the past three weeks, having come here from Daytona Beach, Fla. He came with highest endorsements as a flyer, and had been giving entire satisfaction to his employers, it is understood.

According to Lannie F. Simmons, president of the Statesboro Aircraft Corporation, Dobbs was flying over the field merely for the exercise and undertook to do some fancy flying, a thing not at all difficult for him. Apparently misjudging the distance from the ground, he was taking a nose-dive when he suddenly discovered his close proximity to the top of the walnut tree just outside the landing field. He struck before he could right his plane, and the impact broke off the right wing and slightly damaged the left wing, besides doing other damage, although altogether estimated at approximately $500. Mr. Dobbs reached the ground unhurt and came to town to report the accident. A large crowd of interested spectators assembled at the landing field to view the unusual accident. The plane was lowered to the earth Wednesday afternoon without very great difficulty.

JONES BACK HOME AFTER 24 YEARS

Former Statesboro Citizen Guest At Chamber of Commerce Luncheon Tuesday. An interesting personage who was a guest at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon Tuesday was a former citizen of Statesboro, Capt. Jesse Jones, now of New Orleans, La.

Leaving Statesboro twenty-four years ago, Capt. Jones began a sea-faring life, and has followed the water from that day to the present. Today he is in the employ of one of the large shipping concerns operating a line of vessels from New Orleans to South America. He was called upon at the dinner and spoke interestingly of that part of the world with which he has become so familiar. He spoke of the importance of commerce in Brazil, where so great a quantity of coffee is produced, and for which the United States is a generous customer. Brazil, he explained, is larger in territory than the United States, with many large cities and a fine system of sanitation and police.

Mr. Jones arrived ten days ago for a visit to his mother, Mrs. J. M. Jones. He was at the dinner Tuesday in company with his brother, H. P. Jones, who is the local representative of the Gulf Refining Company.

Denmark School Has Closing Program

Denmark Junior High School, one of the best of the county schools, came to a close Tuesday evening with exercises which were witnessed by a crowd which filled the auditorium. Preceding the formal address by D. B. Turner, the exercises were opened by devotion by Rev. William Kitchener. The address was given by Derald Anderson, of the ninth grade, and by Juanita Hagans, of the seventh grade, both of which were beautifully worded and well rendered. The exercises closed with the presentation of certificates to the students who were finishing the seventh grade, the presentation being by H. P. Womack, members of the county schools.

FIFTY FREE TRIPS GIVEN CLUBSTERS

Bulloch county 4-H club boys and girls will have an opportunity to attend the state wild life camp this summer, according to County Agent Byron Dyer. He advised that 50 free trips will be given in the state and that boys and girls in this county will be eligible to compete for those trips. Copies of wild life bulletins may be obtained at his office, the agent said, and he particularly urged that Miscellaneous Publication No. 291, on "Teaching Conservation of Wild Life Through 4-H Clubs," be used in the wild life conservation program.

The agent pointed out that the wild life record book is for recording the activities of individual club members in the wild life program and urged that the boys and girls in the county do this. One of the most important things, he said, is to stress forest fire prevention. Fire is one of the most destructive agencies to wild life, as it destroys both food and cover.

Tax Equalizers Are Beginning Their Work

Bulloch county tax board began Monday its work of equalization for state and county taxation. According to a casual estimate, not less than two million dollars will be lost in homestead and household exemptions under the new law. This loss will probably be partially offset by an increase in the rate of taxation, which rate can only be assessed after the equalizers have completed their work. The county board members are S. D. Murphy, J. H. Wyatt and J. M. Groover.

PROSPECTS GOOD FOR EXTRA BUYERS

Committee Returns Greatly Encouraged From Conference With Exporters in Virginia. According to reports made by the committee from Statesboro who last week went to Richmond, Va., for a conference with the tobacco companies' representatives, Statesboro has good prospects of procuring the extra set of buyers next season for which the committee was asking.

The committee from the Chamber of Commerce consisted of R. J. Kennedy, C. P. Olliff, J. G. Tillman and Byron Dyer. They were met at Raleigh, N. C., enroute by Messrs. Cobb and Foxhall and R. E. Sheppard, of the two Statesboro warehouses, and J. A. Bennett, of the Georgia and Florida Railway industrial department.

It is said that many of the large companies readily expressed a willingness to send extra buyers here, and still others left the impression that they were favorably inclined. It was explained that one of the larger companies who questioned the necessity of this extra service did so on the assumption that acreage in this territory will be largely reduced this season under the present governmental system of crop control. This condition, it was explained, does not so affect the territory surrounding Statesboro, but rather has the opposite effect. The greatest measure of restriction, it was said, affects those sections of the tobacco belt where the largest acreage has already been under cultivation. In the territory of which our section is a part, the acreage is actually greatly increased—these increases being estimated at from 50 to 80 per cent above last year.

It has been stated that the acreage in Bulloch county alone this year will jump from approximately 2,400 to over 4,000 acres, while neighboring counties are having increases in about the same proportion. These facts were pointed out to the companies and made a favorable impression upon them, it was said. It was further pointed out that warehouse facilities in Statesboro for the coming season will be vastly more than double that of last season, when large quantities of tobacco went away from this market on account of the crowded condition at the three warehouses.

Statesboro's new warehouse, now being constructed by R. E. Sheppard, adds 105,000 square feet of floor space for our market.

PRICES CONTINUE HIGH ON LOCAL STOCK MARKET

Despite the general drop in prices throughout the country, prices for poultry here have held up well on the local markets during the week, according to those who have observed the transactions. The two regular sales have been held, Tuesday and Wednesday. No report has been given as from Wednesday's sales, but O. L. McElmore, of the Bulloch Stock Yard, where sales were held Tuesday, has handed in the following general statement concerning local conditions: "Bulloch Stock Yard reports good sales again this week. Although the hog markets in the west are lower than for several months the hog market held up well. No. ones, $7.10; No. twos, $6.75 to $6.85; No. threes, $6.50 to $7.00; No. fours, $6.75 to $7.50; best veals, $8.00 to $8.50. The packers are predicting cheaper hogs and catfish in the near months. It seems that now is good time to sell all surplus livestock."

POULTRY SALE MONDAY NETTED $572.36 CASH

The co-operative poultry sale moved 3,529 pounds of poultry Monday for $572.36. Tennessee Egg Company, Chattanooga, Tenn., was the successful bidder on this sale. Prices paid were 20 cents per pound for colored fryers, 18 cents for Leghorn fryers, 15 cents for colored hens, 14 cents for Leghorn hens and 10 cents for roosters. Future sales will be held as the stuff on the yards is ready to move.

Times strong on all classes, especially on thin crows. Best beef type fed cat brought $7.85; good light, $8.75 to $9.00; No. four, $8.75 to $9.50; best veals, $8.00 to $8.50. The packers are predicting cheaper hogs and catfish in the near months. It seems that now is good time to sell all surplus livestock."

Three Hundred Students From Many School to Be on College Campus Approximately three hundred seniors from various high schools in this section of the state will be on the college campus Saturday, May 7th, to participate in the Play Day, according to Jim Winkler. This event is sponsored by the physical education department of the college so that pupils from the schools may meet each other in a pleasant, informal way and to foster the spirit of play. The girls are supposed to meet on the practice field back of Sanford Hall, where the softball games are now held. The boys are to meet on the old football field or on the practice field back of West Hall. The purpose of the affair is to encourage the schools to play with each other rather than always playing against each other, and to promote wholesome activity through a varied program of physical education. The girls are to bring a gym suit, shorts and shirt, or slacks and shirt, with tennis shoes or flat-heeled oxfords. Boys are to wear a gym suit, baseball uniform, or swimming suit, tennis, baseball or track shoes. The boys are also requested to bring a baseball glove if possible. Saturday morning is scheduled to begin at 10 o'clock. All visiting players are to register and colored arm bands will be given to distinguish teams which will be divided up according to sex, age or some other qualification.

AGENT SUGGESTS LARGER ACREAGE

Cover Crops Are Desirable As Soil Building Forces On Bulloch County Farms. County Agent Byron Dyer advises Bulloch county farmers to plant such crops as cowpeas, soybeans, lespedeza, and runner peanuts because they can be used for several purposes. He said that such crops may be planted for food, feed, seed, or soil improvement, and that the proper amount of such crops will supply the needs of the farm and maintain the fertility of the soil. "The 1938 agricultural conservation program encourages the use of these crops," Mr. Dyer declared. "It is fortunate that these crops are well adapted to most of Georgia, and particularly to Bulloch county. A farm program here is not complete without these crops." Mr. Dyer advises that, in using these crops for soil improvement purposes, as much crop residue be left on the land as possible. The stubble is very effective in controlling erosion during the winter months and these crops will protect the land during the summer rains, if they are not grazed too closely. In some sections of the state, farmers make a practice of plowing under peanuts, to be hogged off. The agent said this is a good practice and advised that any of these crops will make good feed.

Between Us

With May Day festivities going on at the grammar school and college this week, one might have thought that there would be much time left for other affairs. A great many of our folks have been drawn to see what splendid work our schools are doing with these little folks and college students. We just hope our grammar school will make this an annual affair. It is so enjoyable. When the college chaps come here, having seen some of the lovely dresses in pastel shades, floor-length, and the beautiful hats, they are sure the idea of Lake Wales will show off to its glory when the queen and her attendants appear Friday afternoon. It's hard to believe folks are already making plans for summer, and alas it seems we get this warning too soon; but who can help but make plans when the days begin to get hot and we hear the call of the sun, the sea, and the palm trees.

LANIER-HODGES

Centering much interest throughout this section was the marriage of Miss Mary Helen Lanier and Eli Hodges, which took place at a quiet ceremony Sunday, May 1, at 10 o'clock in the morning at the Methodist parsonage, with Rev. N. H. Williams officiating in the presence of members of the immediate family.

The attractive young bride was lovely in a two-piece suit of beige sheer alpaca with which she wore accessories of London tan and a shoulder dress of sweetheart roses. She is the daughter of Mrs. O. M. Lanier and the late Otis Lanier. Since she was graduated from Statesboro High School in the class of '36 she has been working in the Statesboro Telephone office.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hodges, of Clinton. He has been making his home in Statesboro for a number of years and is owner of the E. L. market on West Main street. Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Hodges left for a wedding trip to Asheville and other points in North Carolina.
